BISMARCK'S CIGAR.

BISMARCK'S CIGAR.

A new cigar story is being told of Prince Bismarck, who was an inveterate smoker. "The value of a good eigar."

Bismarck is reported by his latest biographer to have declared. "is best understood when it is the last you possess, and there is no chance of getting another. At Kroniggratz I had only one cigar left in my pocket, which I carefully guarded during the whole of the battle as a miser does his treasure. I did not feel justified in using it.

"I painted in glowing colors in my mind the happy hour when I should enjoy it after the victory. But I had miscalculated my chances. A poor dragoon lay helpless, with arms crushed, waiting for the hospital corps to reach him, and murmuring for something to refresh him temporarily.

"I felt in my pockets, and found I had only gold and that would be of no use to him. But, stay—I had still my treasured cigar! I lighted this for him, and placed it between his teeth.

ALEXANDRIAT SAVE DROWNING SKATER; FORM CHAIN OF BODIES

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3.—To save Mary Oppsley, of River road, West Manayunk, from drowning yesterday, two boys and a girl formed a chain of their bodies and dragged their companion out of the water to a place of safety.

The youngsters had been skating together on a pond at Rudolph's paper mill, Belment avenue and the Reading railway. Mary attempted to cross the pond alone. Horace Hilton, eighteen, Emma Krane, fifteen, and George Oppsley, sixteen years old, were skating after her, when to their horror she sank through the ice.

Approaching as near as possible Approaching as near as possible, George Oppsley lay upon the ice and watched for her to rise. Grasping her by the hair, he held on until his companions stretched themselves on the ice behind him, and together, pulling George by the feet, they worked themselves backward with their burden. Mary was taken into the home of Robert Spurgiss, where she was given warm clothing. She went home none the worse for her cold bath.
